FINED FOR INFRACTION SELECTIVE SERVICE RULING

SAM McDOWELL TO RETIRE ON MARCH 31

In the first prosecution in the Crows' Nest Pass area for violation of Selective Service regulations requiring work permits as a pre-requisite for employment, a fine of $25 and costs was imposed on a local district employer by Magistrate Antrobus on Tuesday of this week.

The charge arose from the action of accused in that he employed a person who did not have a permit for such employment from a Selective Service officer.

Employers should by this time be familiar with the regulations, and an employer who hires help without first securing a permit frustrates the equitable distribution of available manpower.

HIGHER SALARIES

FOR TEACHERS

Adequate salaries for members of the teaching profession in order that a high standard of personnel may be maintained is urged in a resolution sent to provincial ministers of education and secretaries of teachers' organizations throughout Canada by the national board of directors of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Sam has been one of Blairmore's most valuable assets. He has taken part in municipal politics and was a member of the school board. His interests in the youth of the town have always burned brightly and many young hockey players have played under his management. He is the sparkplug behind the Blairmore Community Sports Association and maintains its efficiency. He is always active in worthwhile community activities and since the outbreak of war has worked ceaselessly in aiding war charities and taking an active part in Blairmore's war finance committee, which is headed by Bill Chappell.

Fortunately neither Blairmore nor the Pass is going to lose so valuable a citizen. He is going to remain right in the old Crows' Nest Pass for some time to come, and next month he will again be rolling up his sleeves, tapping Bill Chappell on the shoulder and saying, "Come on, Bill, I s'pose I've got a job to do, so let's get it done."

His many friends throughout the Crows' Nest Pass wish him many happy years in his retirement and hope that he will mingle just as freely in the future with as he has in the past.—Coleman Journal.

RECKLESS DRIVERS ARE SENT TO JAIL

Showing a reduction of 30 from the previous year, 18 persons were convicted in Alberta last year on charges of being intoxicated while in charge of a motor vehicle, according to the provincial secretary's department. They were given jail sentences.

In addition, three were given prison sentences for manslaughter and five sent to jail for dangerous or reckless driving. In all, 26 motorists were given jail sentences.

The Alberta Motor Association on many occasions has urged the need of measures being taken to see that regulations concerning sane and safe driving are enforced. It also has urged public co-operation to aid the police in locating "hit-and-run" drivers.

Doubtless the efforts made by the A.M.A. to promote safety have been a factor in reducing the number of reckless driving cases.

There also has been a substantial reduction in the number of motor vehicle accidents in the province, the number in 1943 being 1,872, compared with 2,378 in 1942.

At the same time, there were just as many cars on the highway during the past year as the year before.

The reduction of the speed limit to 40 miles per hour doubtless has been a factor in cutting the accident toll.

HOUSEWIVES IN INDUSTRY

AN INSTITUTION THAT IS DOING EXCELLENT WORK

Housewives have been recruited to supply the deficiency of labor in wartime industries, and women generally have given valuable service in taking the places of the men who have left civilian life to join the fighting forces. War is an abnormal condition in human life, and it requires both men and women to do things they would not think of doing in times of peace.

Cities are devastated and homes and entire families are wiped out in an instant, and even in countries remote from the war zone family life is more or less broken up and the routine of civilized society is disrupted.

We accept these conditions as we accept an earthquake, and we strive to make the best of them. There may be those who, having benefited by the war, would not mind if it continued indefinitely. They look back upon the depression and feel that they should blame somebody for those hard times. But if the war came to Canada we would wish that they were back in the depression, with all of its hardships. If we are prosperous in Canada it is only because people in the war-torn countries and our fighting men are suffering and dying to keep us free.

Full employment has always been associated with war, and one of the evils of war is that it creates overemployment. The employment of housewives and others who in times of peace would be engaged in domestic affairs is perhaps the worst feature of that condition. The home is the nursery of the nation, and, if it is neglected, family life is disorganized and the rising generation is degraded. This is evidenced by the reports of increasing juvenile delinquency.

In all our planning for post-war reconstruction one of the first things should be the rehabilitation of the home. And yet there are those who advocate the continuance of housewives in industry in order to give what they call "full employment" and maintain the national income at the war-time level by maximum production. As for the children, they would be taken care of in community centres. Large numbers of our young people would thus become wards of the State, and all that the parents would have to worry about would be to swell production and the national income.

That is Nazism, and it is what we are fighting against in this war. It would be a tragedy indeed if we were to become victims of the disease we are trying to eradicate.—Lewis Miligan.

OUTLINES CREDIT UNIONS

A history of the credit union movement and explanation of the operation of credit unions was given members of the Knights of Columbus at Calgary on Wednesday night by Rev. J. B. O'Dea, pastor of St. Famille parish and formerly of Bellevue and Cowley.

Father O'Dea said Alfonse Desjardins, of Quebec, started the first credit union on American soil in 1910, following a visit to Italy, where he interviewed Lusette, founder of the movement. He said the credit union at St. Famille was a success, and expressed the view that success would attend it in Alberta.

Needless to say, the two brothers were mighty glad to see each other.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

THE WOOD'S CHRISTIAN HOME

The Wood's Christian Home, operated in Calgary under a board of well known Calgary citizens, is at present the foster home of close to one hundred children of both sexes. They are youngsters who for one reason or another might easily find themselves homeless were it not for this worthy institution.

The value of the enterprise to the community can best be estimated if one considers the situation that would immediately develop were it not in operation. The service it affords is essential from a community viewpoint, quite as much as from the viewpoint of those to whom it gives service. In its absence one of two things might happen. Either municipal or provincial governments, or both, would have to provide such service at public expense, or the children would go without. In that case the ultimate cost to the public would be much greater.

According to its annual report, the Home has had a busy and successful year. Also it is maintaining the high standard of efficiency set by its founders many years ago. Financially it is in good shape, thanks to the cash and other contributions of its many friends.—Ex.

TWINS OF NECESSITY

There are many among us who must figure closely in order to make their earnings meet the bare necessities for the family. For them, an unexpected income tax balance of $20, $40 or $60 becomes a problem and in a few cases makes the purchase of a $50 Victory Bond a doubtful possibility.

Happily, in the existing economic status of Canada, such bread-winners are very much in the minority. Most families in communities large and small in all provinces are in receipt of sufficient income to provide for the necessities, to pay their income taxes in full and in addition buy Victory Bonds.

There are large numbers of these however, who spend their income as fast as it comes in and who will also face an income tax balance due for the year 1943 difficult to finance. That is why they will not have reserve funds on which to draw and they will be forced to scrape up the required amounts out of current income.

Thanks to the monthly savings plan of the National War Finance Committee, this latter group will be able to join their fellow citizens in the patriotic effort of supporting our armed forces engaged in battle. If they begin to save now, they will be able to meet the income tax payment before the loan campaign is finished and will be able to buy bonds through a plan that does not call for the first payment until the month of May.

OF COURSE, THIS NEVER HAPPENED

The story goes the round in Nova Scotia of R. B. Bennett, who on being shown his room in a supposedly elite hotel, remarked what a pleasant spot it was. The manager replied: "We try to make our guests comfortable, sir. As a matter of fact, we have definite proof that the bed you are sleeping in was once occupied by Sir Wilfred Laurier." R. B. said nothing.

Heavily lidded and scratching vigorously, he stood before the lobby desk to pay his bill. Just then the beaming manager rushed up to enquire how R. B. had slept. "Well," said R. B., "I didn't mind sleeping in the Old Boy's bed, but I'll be darned if I enjoyed sleeping with the whole darn Liberal party," and still scratching, he made his exit.

Britain's War Effort

Savings Effort Has Increased Every Year Of The War

The savings effort of the British Home Front has increased steadily throughout the war, despite the immense increase in all forms of taxation during the same period. In all, a total of more than $26,000,000,000 has been saved—an average of more than $569 for each man, woman and child in Britain.

The war effort of the British people increases with every year of war. This is well illustrated by their record in small savings. For every savings stamp and gift token bought in 1940, eight were bought in 1943. Small savers holding certificates total 17,000,000, which is over 50 per cent. of the entire British adult population. Over half the 1943 savings total was contributed by small savers. There was a similar increase in large savings.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 26

THE SACREDNESS OF LIFE

(Temperance Lesson)

Golden text: Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit. I Cor. 6:19-20.

Lesson: Genesis 1:27, 28; Matthew 12:11, 12; Romans 14:19-21; I Corinthians 6:19, 20.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 116:12-19.

Explanations and Comments: Man made in the image of God, Genesis 1:27. From the creation story comes this text. The purpose of the earth which God created was to become the abode of man, whom God made in His own image; all his earlier acts were preparatory for man's coming. God created man in His own image, in the image of God, created he him.

Man is likened to God in His intellectual, moral and religious capacities and powers, in His ability to think, feel and will, which makes possible His creation of God and God's revelation to him.

Man Made to Have Dominion, Genesis 1:28-31. All God gave man dominion over all other living things, vegetable and animal.

Jesus' Valuation of Man above Possessions, Matthew 12:10-12. One day a man with a swelled head because of the spirit of pride. According to the Apocryphal Gospel of the Hebrews, the man said: "I was a master, winning a livelihood with my hands; I was a man of power; thou restore me to soundness, lest I have the shame of begging my food."

The Scribes and Pharisees (Lk. 6:7) said to Jesus, "It is lawful to heal on the Sabbath day." They sought a chance to accuse him. In answer Jesus asked who among them would not rescue a sheep that had fallen into a pit on the Sabbath day. How much then is a man of more value than a sheep? It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath day.

Man is the temple of the Holy Spirit, I Corinthians 6:19, 20. Your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit, received from God. Ye are not your own, for ye were bought with a price—the price of your redemption. Glory God therefore in your body; honor him by your care of the temple in which the Holy Spirit dwells, in which God has breathed something of his own life.

Universal Carrier

Often termed the "most useful vehicle in the war", the Universal Carrier is the pet of the Infantry, supporting and complementing their actions over terrain that would be impossible to almost any other means of transport. This speedy, lightly armoured, open-topped vehicle travels on caterpillar tracks at a speed comparable with that of road-confined automobiles. It is used for action against enemy troops and aircraft, be utilized as a smoke screen, laid as a tank-destroyer, for laying communication wires, and for many other types of work. The hard-hitting Infantry have a tough affection for these speedy weapon carriers that can take as much punishment as the versatile Infantrymen themselves, and still come back to hand out even tougher punishment to the enemy.

HAPPENINGS SOMETIMES

John, aged five, had been caught wasting bread, so his mother delivered a little lecture on the sin of waste. She concluded it by saying, "What would you do if the brave sailors, who bring your food, said they would not bring any for naughty boys who wasted it?" "Well," said the culprit, after a pause for reflection, "perhaps we could pinch some from the good little boys."

An appreciable rainfall occurs only once every few years in the Egyptian desert.

INCREASE CONTINUES

Output of aircraft in Britain continues to increase, it has been announced. Total structure and weight of output in February this year was more than 26 per cent. higher than in February, 1943, while heavy bombers in structure and weight showed an increase of more than 33 per cent. Actual figures were not issued.

Different Viewpoint

Soldiers Do Not See War In Some Way As Civilians

An American private in an English village pub remarked to one of this newspaper's reporters, Drew Middleton, that he didn't like to hear war "called fancy names." Other soldiers profanely agreed. They just didn't care to be called the "spearhead of democracy" or to be lectured on "honor" and "glory." They intend to do what they had to do, which was to "beat these Germans because it's gotta be done." They did not regard the prospect as romantic.

The very fact that the subject could come up reveals the chasm between the soldier and the civilian. The civilian, and for weasenes that weasenes are prone to use the words the soldier doesn't like. The civilian has a sense of inferiority. Because of youth, age, bad eyesight, a weak heart or an essential occupation he is not asking to fight. The Army and Navy won't have him. So he has an easier time of it than the soldier. He is not to blame, but his conscience hurts him. Glorifying the soldier and the soldier's job makes him feel better. But to the soldier he seems to be saying: "Never mind the rain, mud, snow, dust, thirst, hunger, malaria, tetanus and general discomfort; never mind the danger, the wounds, the pain; never mind the stink and horrors that fix your mind, the sickly devil, in the beautiful, glittering generalities."

The soldier is not thinking of generalities. He is thinking of how to get through the next day, hour, minute, how to keep on going, how to do what he has to do without getting killed. He is dirty, unhappy, dangerous work and, being human, he doesn't like it. More honor to him, but there we go; he doesn't care for honor as a word but only as an act. In the long years to come he may acquire perspective and realize that he and his dead comrades really were the spearhead of democracy and that their conduct was really honorable and glorious. But not now. He is too close to the fact.

A GOOD REASON

Thompson had asked Jenkins to dinner at his house, and Jenkins didn't show up. A few days later the men met again. Thompson said, "Do you know I asked you to dinner the other night?"

"Oh, yes," said Jenkins. "Then why didn't you come?"

"Let me think," replied Jenkins. "Oh, I remember; I wasn't hungry."

A Common Program

Problems Facing Allies After The War Are Being Discussed

Representatives of the Allied governments already are discussing methods to be used in the post-war days to insure co-ordinated action on all problems affecting them, Viscount Halifax, Great Britain's ambassador to the United States, said.

The ambassador was in Boston to receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Law at Boston University.

"There is a common program now being discussed," he said at a press conference, "concerning the problems of the Allies after the war. However, ultimately the results of the discussions must depend on the attitude of the respective publics in the different communities."

Air Offensive

War Of Wits Between Attackers And Defenders

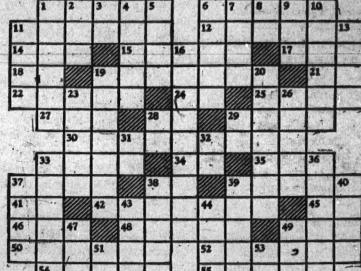

Air Vice Marshal Sandby, C-in-C of Bomber Command, has said that in this war of wits between the attackers and the defenders, the attack becomes more difficult every week, due to the great development in size of the enemy defences, and the fact that 80% of the enemy's night fighters are now on the Western Front. Yet, thanks to the tactical ingenuity of Bomber Command, the air offensive continues to grow in size, despite these difficulties, and without heavy percentage of losses.

C.P.R. LOCOMOTIVES IN ART

The tempo of wartime activity in a great railway shop and locomotive works, presented over calm waters, presents an interesting study in contrasts at an exhibit of oil paintings by Adrien Hebert, R.C.A., now on display in the Osborne street entrance lobby of the Montreal, Pa. office, Railway's Windsor station at Montreal.

These subjects, rarely associated with the realm of art, have been given effective treatment by Mr. Hebert. One of the more vital operations of the shop men in wartime—the overhauling of hard-working locomotives—has been forcefully portrayed in one of the paintings, one of which is shown with its accompanying illustration while the shops' flaming forges with their attending blacksmiths hard at work, inspired the theme of two others.

Other features of the exhibit include colorful portrayals of Canadian Pacific liners shown peacefully at anchor in Montreal harbor, or sailing, and, incidentally close to port, to show an effective background of smaller ships or landscapes.

Born in Paris, of Canadian parentage, Mr. Hebert began his career at an early age. A fellow of the Royal Society of Arts and Manufactures of London, he has exhibited his work in the Exposition in Montreal and at the Royal Canadian Academy, having been elected an academician in 1941. Some of his pictures are also shown by the Havre Museum, and another by the Musée de Nîmes, during a Paris exhibition of his works.

Mr. Hebert has other pictures in Le Musée de la Province de Québec, one belonging to the Art Association of Montreal, one in the National Gallery at Ottawa, and others in private collections.

Doctor (gazing at patient's eye): "You say you have trouble with it? But there's something more. On looking at it, I see signs of liver trouble, of anaemia, and I fear a chronic nervous affection."

Patient: "Look at the other eye,

doc. This is my glass eye you're looking at."

"Well, sir," was the bashful reply, "a lady friend of mine is getting married and—er—she rather wants me to act as bridegroom."

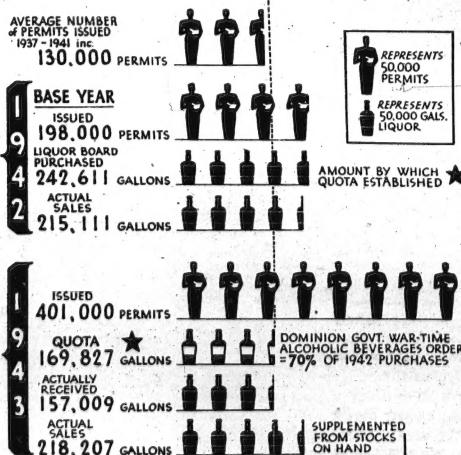

Asked for special leave. "Humph!" said the CO, "and what do you want?"

ALBERTA'S Liquor SITUATION

The Alberta Liquor Control Board is faced today with the cold mathematics of trying to supply more than double the number of permit holders with heavily curtailed liquor quotas. Greater demand rather than reduced supply is mainly responsible for the situation.

The Alberta Liquor Control Board purchased in 1942 base year, 242,611 gallons; actual sales in 1942—215,111 gallons. From these figures it is evident the amount purchased is in excess of sales. In 1943, the Alberta quota for liquor was 169,827 gallons (70 per cent of 1942 purchases). Of this amount, only 157,009 gallons was received. Thus, the province received 12,818 gallons less than it was allowed under its quota.

The sales for 1943 totalled 218,207 gallons. The difference between the amount received and the amount sold was made up out of stocks on hand.

BANKING IS ADAPTABLE

...it changes constantly to meet
this country's changing needs

FOR INSTANCE...

Ever wonder where your ration coupons go? The answer is that your grocer takes your sugar, butter and other coupons to his bank, which acts as the government's agent in identifying and accounting for millions of spent coupons. This vast bookkeeping job—known as "Ration Coupon Banking"—is just one of the new, additional assignments which the banks have assumed as part of their wartime service.

Another is the payment, on behalf of the government, of certain subsidies arising out of wartime price control. Still another is the handling of exchange transactions as agents of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

At the same time the banks have arranged facilities to serve military establishments and new war-industry centres alike.

Through loans to industry and agriculture, they have helped to increase the supply of raw materials, weapons and food.

They have acted as issuing agents for approximately $5,700,000,000 worth of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, as well as lending direct financial aid to the government through short term loans.

...All this in the face of widespread staff changes resulting from enlistments of 8,360 trained bank employees.

The war emergency has proved the readiness and ability of Canada's banks to adapt their services to new conditions. It has proved, once again, the strength of your banking system, which is providing a firm base of financial service for the greatest economic effort in the nation's history, and will with equal resourcefulness meet the challenge of the years ahead.

A Survey Of Education

DURING THE TROUBLED times through which we are now passing, there is a general tendency to look ahead, and to hope for a better world when the war is ended. Education is a fundamental factor in social progress, and it holds an important place in any plans which we may make for post-war improvements. A recent report, made by the Survey Committee of the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association, contains some interesting facts concerning our Canadian schools, and points out some ways in which our educational system could be adjusted, to meet the needs of these changing times. There is a very well known saying to the effect that "the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow." With this in mind, outstanding educationalists have conducted a country-wide survey, the first to be made here. Their report deals with numerous problems relating to our school systems.

Larger School Units Proposed

An adequate program of health service for all children is stressed as a fundamental need. This should include both medical and dental care. It is further proposed that educational opportunities be equalized in all areas, whether rural or urban. Canada at present has 26,610 school administrative units, and of this number 14,692 units employ only one teacher, while 1,430 employ but two teachers. These small units represent more than three quarters of the whole, and pupils are taught all subjects from grade one to grades nine or ten in one or two room schools. The report of the committee in this connection include the suggestion that larger units be created to afford greater facilities for the children in rural districts, and that pupils living at a distance from the school be provided with transportation or living accommodation in hostels or boarding houses. It is also proposed that, as soon as possible after the war, a building program be undertaken to supply necessary new buildings and to repair old ones, and that the number of supervisors and inspectors be increased. "Helping teachers" are suggested to assist class-room teachers, especially in the primary grades.

Many Reforms Are Outlined

In respect to financial matters, the report reveals that the amount of money spent per child per year varies widely throughout the Dominion, the minimum $83.38. The average teacher's salary in Canada is $782 per year, and 74.9 per cent. of the teachers receive less than $1,223 a year. This is compared with the average wages of workers in all Canadian industries, which was $1,207 a year in 1940. The report suggests that the present yearly school expenditure in the Dominion, which is $146,832,642, be doubled, and that additional annual expenditures be provided for. It proposes that all fees be abolished in elementary and secondary schools; a system of scholarships be set up to enable gifted students to continue their studies; that the average teacher's salary be raised to $1,321; that library facilities be improved and extended; that the school-leaving age be placed at sixteen years, and that part-time attendance should be required until the age of eighteen. These are only some of the proposals which are made for improving the preparation of Canadian youth to assume the responsibilities of citizenship.

Telephone Of Future

Will Be Self-Answering With Device For Taking Messages

A telephone that will answer itself and talk back to you when you come home was predicted by Bell Telephone Laboratories Inc., in New York for after the war.

The self-answering phone uses a recording device, usually a magnetic record on a steel tape, from which messages can later be erased by passing the tape between two poles of a magnet, thus permitting it to be used again and again.

If nobody answers the phone, the caller can start talking to the tape. When the person called comes home, he picks up the receiver and the message is "played" to him.

A variation of this device already in use records a two-way conversation for permanent records, but somebody has to pick up the receiver to make it work.—NewswEEK.

Out To Win

And President Of Britain's Board Of Trade Expects Co-operation

Hugh Dalton, president of Britain's Board of Trade, has slowed down more wheels than any other man in Britain. These were the wheels that produced peacetime goods; and he started them spinning again in factories rapidly equipped for war production. The long sequence of decrees framed by him has had more effect on the lives of men, women and children in Britain than the edicts of any other Minister with the exception of Lord Woolton, says Augustus Muir in "Britain". But if anything is notable for its absence it is grumble about the Dalton austerity drive. Mr. Dalton is out to win the war and he expects every member of his staff to keep pace with him. He sleeps in a room next door to his office, and he is back at his desk after dinner at night. Seldom does he retire to his country house for a brief weekend; seldom does he see Mrs. Dalton, whose own hands are full with important war work. Before he took office as President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Dalton controlled the Ministry of Economic War. He is an acknowledged expert in foreign politics and international trade relations. He served in France and on the Italian front in the last war, receiving a decoration for valor.

Q—How can I obtain a ration book for new-born babies?

To obtain the ration book for new-born babies, you must make application to your local ration board, bringing with you either the child's birth certificate or baptismal certificate.

Q—What should be done with ration books belonging to persons who have died?

A—If a member of household dies, the ration book must be turned in to the local ration board immediately by the legal representative of the deceased, or by some member of the household.

Q—I am about to move into a new home shortly, and yesterday on talking to the tenants who are moving out, I find that the landlord is charging me a higher rent than they have been paying. What should I do?

A—If you are sure of your facts, I would suggest that you take the matter up with your landlord and get him to make an adjustment between yourselves. If you can't get satisfaction this way, then I suggest you get in touch with the Rentals Administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which can be located in the capital city of your province.

Q—As a "war bride" newly arrived in Canada, how should I go about getting a ration book?

A—Please go to your local ration board which will deal with your request.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mailing, the address given, to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

BRIDGE BUILT BY EIGHTH ARMY SAPPERS NAMED PONTE MONTY

To the accompaniment of singing by a choir formed mainly of Welshmen, Eighth Army sappers recently completed their greatest bridge-building feat of the war. About 320 of them, with 100 laborers, flung a 1,200-ft.-long steel bridge across a river in 10 days. At night the men, who haled from all parts of the Empire, worked under floodlights with officers always ready to switch them off at the approach of enemy aircraft. Gen. Montgomery watched the early stages of the building. Once he put his shoulders to a girder to help move it into position. "That suggests the name for the bridge, sir," said an officer standing by. "What's that?" asked Montgomery. "Ponte Monty," said the officer. That is not the official name of the bridge, but throughout the Eighth Army it is known as Ponte Monty, reports the London Daily Herald.

Mutual Aid Will Bring The Allies Closer Together

OTTAWA.—Mutual aid agreements with Britain, Russia and Australia, tabled in parliament by Prime Minister King, contained terms to show that Canada's material assistance to its allies in this war would serve to cement closer economic relations after the war.

Thus mutual aid, as one of Canada's weapons for victory, will become a weapon for prosperity in the future.

Other agreements are being negotiated with China and the French National Committee of Liberation along similar lines.

The Canadian government wrote into its mutual aid agreement a clause comparable to section seven of the master agreement of the United States lend-lease act, which binds countries receiving lend-lease to promote mutual economic advantage after the war.

The Canadian agreement, in clause "X" of the treaty with Britain and Australia, and clause "IX" in the Russian treaty reads as follows:

"The governments re-affirm their desire to promote mutually advantageous economic relations between their countries and throughout the world; they declare that their guiding purposes include the adoption of measures designed to promote employment; the production and consumption of goods; and the expansion of trade and the conclusion of appropriate international agreements on commercial policy, with the object of contributing to the attainment of all the economic objectives set forth in the declaration of April 14, 1941, known as the 'Atlantic Charter.'

Reference to the Atlantic Charter was article "V" of that declaration which stated the objective to be: "The fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field with the object of securing for all improved labor standards; economic advancement, and social security."

The new mutual aid agreements did not specify amount or value of material assistance to be furnished to Britain, Russia and Australia this year; in Canberra, Hon. H. V. Evatt, minister of external affairs for Australia disclosed that his country expected to receive from $85,000,000 to $100,000,000 annually.

The total amount of mutual aid to be provided by Canada in 1944-45 is expected to be $600,000,000, a reduction from the billion dollar figure appropriated last year.

The agreements with Britain and Russia were signed on Feb. 11. The Australian agreement was signed only on March 9.

Canada's mutual aid agreements were drafted in order to leave no doubt of the precise post-war obligations inherent in the goods and materials supplied by this country; this, as much as the avoidance of a war debt in money terms, is expected to reduce the possibility of future disputes. There will be, as Mr. King said, "no indeterminate obligations."

The agreements provide that ships, supplied by Canada will be returned; that supplies on the way when the war ends, may revert to Canada; that serviceable aircraft and automotive equipment may be retained, and that serviceable supplies could be, at Canada's discretion, transferred for relief purposes, or to Canada's forces.

In all this there is no commitment required to return any supplies that are consumed by an allied country receiving mutual aid from Canada.

In a statement to the house Mr. King said: "The Mutual Aid Act was based on a realization that the provision of materials to the common cause was no less vital and no less a duty than the provision of fighting men."

All three agreements are similar in substance and based on the same preamble which declares it is desirable that war supplies be distributed among United Nations in accordance with strategic needs of war, that conditions of providing supplies should not be such as to burden post-war commerce, lead to the imposition of trade restrictions or otherwise prejudice a just and enduring peace."

SHOWS A DECREASE

OTTAWA.—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported stocks of Canadian wheat in store or in transit in North America at midnight March 9 totalled 356,415,702 bushels, including 317,341,920 bushels in Canadian positions and 19,075,872 bushels in United States positions. On the corresponding date last year the visible supply totalled 448,134,011 bushels.

Princesses Attend Wedding

Princess Elizabeth and Margaret Rose leave Westminster Abbey through an arch of crossed swords following the wedding of Lady Ann Spencer, cousin of Prime Minister Churchill, to Lieut. Wake-Walker, son of the third sea Lord, at which they were guests.

May Acquire Carriers For Canadian Navy

OTTAWA.—Navy Minister MacDonald said in the commons he hoped Canada could acquire two aircraft carriers she is to man for the United Kingdom, but the matter at present is complicated as the vessels were given the United Kingdom under lease by the United States.

Answering a series of questions asked during debate on the navy estimates for the fiscal year 1944-45, the minister said that the aircraft carriers were in a service position, the two carriers being obtained by Canada from the United Kingdom. These were British ships which would come into Canadian hands completely.

Mr. MacDonald said there was no means of saying at present how many men would remain in the Royal Canadian Navy after the war. A post-war complement of between 8,000 and 9,000 men had been authorized in 1941 and since that time various plans had been suggested for a possible maximum but nothing had been decided.

Just recently the minister said the navy personnel numbered about 8,000.

"I hope as do many other members in the house that it will be a reasonably large navy adequate for a country the size of Canada," Mr. MacDonald said.

PASSED OBJECTIVE

Net Amount Of February War Savings Stamp Drive $3,055,188

OTTAWA.—Finance Minister Tilley announced in the commons that the food industry's February war savings stamp drive netted $3,055,188, about 63 per cent. more than the previous month.

"Never before in the history of war savings have so many stamps been sold in a single month," he said. "The success of this campaign has been a stimulant to the war savings effort."

"We shall probably be producing more bigger aircraft and fewer small ones," he explained in a statement in which he disclosed 40 per cent. of Britain's aircraft workers were men.

"We shall certainly see that Canada gets her share of our post-war trade," Mr. MacDonald said.

He added that Canadian exports of agricultural products to Britain would be much larger than shipments made before the war.

"The people of Britain would be extremely well disposed to do all they could to give Canadians a good market for their products," Mr. MacDonald said. He suggested that Canadians should be prepared to take in return, the products of British manufacturers who would again be in a position to export to Canada after the war.

While Britain expected to participate in the Canadian market after the war, she appreciated the fact that Canadian industrial production had greatly increased during the war and would be a factor to contend with after the war.

In matters other than mutual trade, the relationships of Canada and Britain after the war would be one of continued, intimate co-operation, Mr. MacDonald said.

Authorities agreed that even the recent government of meat overseas has been instrumental in the change in the recent suspension of meat rationing. Rationing was suspended on Feb. 29 when surpluses began to pile up in Canada due to inability to ship overseas all meat available.

Continued heavy marketings and shipping limitations have led to renewed suggestions that the United States market be opened to Canadian beef cattle by lifting the present embargo on such shipments.

EXPORT TRADE GROWS

Increased Shipments Of Wheat And Other Farm Products

OTTAWA.—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported that Canada's export trade continues to grow, with the total in February reaching $227,165,000 compared with $167,860,000 in the corresponding month last year.

Features of the month's trade were heavily-increased outward shipments of wheat, meats and motor vehicles and parts. Wheat exports rose to $28,484,000 from $4,909,000, meats to $20,236,000 from $7,253,000 and motor vehicles and parts to $30,315,000 from $16,794,000. Wool exports were increased to $1,683,000 from $195,000.

The flow of Canadian supplies to India, China, the French possessions, Italy, Russia, Turkey, the United Kingdom, the United States, and to many other countries, was continued.

Merchandise exports to India were valued at $12,144,000 compared with $9,998,000, China $3,050,000 against nil, French possessions $1,100,000 compared with $102,000, Italy $4,921,000 compared with $4,400,000, Russia $4,008,000 compared with $1,400,000, Turkey $2,008,000 compared with nil, United Kingdom $76,184,000 compared with $51,883,000 and the United States $91,650,000 compared with $31,085,000.

LARGER PLANES

Britain May Build Bigger Aircraft In Future

LONDON.—Britain has reached her peak of aircraft output "from the numerical point of view," Sir Stafford Cripps, minister of aircraft production, said, but added he did not think "from the point of view of operational strength we have reached it."

"We shall probably be producing more bigger aircraft and fewer small ones," he explained in a statement in which he disclosed 40 per cent. of Britain's aircraft workers were men.

"We shall certainly see that Canada gets her share of our post-war trade," Mr. MacDonald said.

In matters other than mutual trade, the relationships of Canada and Britain after the war would be one of continued, intimate co-operation, Mr. MacDonald said.

The immense amount of help Canadian farmers had given to Britain in this war through the sending of foodstuffs to keep British people alive would not be forgotten after the war. This help had won the eternal gratitude of the British people, Mr. MacDonald said.

It was only the refusal of the British commonwealth to surrender that prevented a complete German triumph. Because of that as well as other commonwealth achievements in this war, the position of the commonwealth would emerge after the war with increased political influence.

If the nations of the British commonwealth continue to co-operate as they surely would, they could make a big contribution to solving the problems of peace, as they had made to the winning of the war.

As a member of the British commonwealth, an American country, and as one of the leaders of the smaller nations of the world, Canada would have a considerable part to play in post-war international affairs, he said.

Canada's importance was illustrated by the facts that she was fourth largest producer of munitions among the United Nations, she produced great quantities of food which would be badly needed for relief and rehabilitation, she possessed resources required by the world, and she would have an influence over development of world air routes due to her geographic position.

Referring to Canada's growing prestige in the international sphere, Mr. MacDonald said that before the war, Empire foreign policy was generally pronounced from London, after consultation with the dominions. But after the war the situation would be changed with Canada and the other dominions participating to a greater extent in the drafting of foreign policy.

Farmers May Now Deliver Orphan Wheat

OTTAWA.—Trade Minister MacKinnon announced arrangements have been made for the delivery of prairie "orphan wheat" — that is wheat owned by persons who have left their farms and are unable to deliver the grain under existing quota regulations.

Under an order-in-council, the Canadian wheat board has been authorized to take delivery from producers who were producing wheat in the crop year 1942-43 or in any prior year, and who have sold or otherwise disposed of or terminated their interest in farm lands operated by them, and who are not now engaged in farming operations. The wheat must have been produced prior to the disposal of the producer's interest in the land before it may be taken under the regulations.

At points where the delivery quota is more than 10 bushels per authorized acre, the wheat board will take delivery of "orphan wheat" without regard to quotas. The delivery quota now is 10 bushels at practically all prairie points.

Payment will be on the usual basis of $1.25 a bushel for No. 1 Northern in store at Fort William.

Any person who delivers wheat under the order will not be eligible to receive a per cent for the delivery of grain in the crop year 1944-45.

MEAT SHIPMENTS

Are Taking Every Advantage Of Shipping Facilities

OTTAWA.—Overseas shipments of meat from Canada at present are believed to be making records and every advantage is being taken of shipping facilities because of the danger that less space may be available later on, agriculture department officials said.

The shipping situation had improved recently, but there still were insufficient vessels to move the vast supplies of pork and beef being marketed in Canada.

Officials said their experience had been that shipping space varied, with heavy movement possible one week but only limited supplies accommodated the next and they had no assurance of the recent improvement would continue.

In matters other than mutual trade, the relationships of Canada and Britain after the war would be one of continued, intimate co-operation, Mr. MacDonald said.

The immense amount of help Canadian farmers had given to Britain in this war through the sending of foodstuffs to keep British people alive would not be forgotten after the war. This help had won the eternal gratitude of the British people, Mr. MacDonald said.

The British commonwealth performed great services to humanity in the most critical year of the war, before Russia and America were implicated, and after the whole of Europe had been conquered, Mr. MacDonald said.

It was only the refusal of the British commonwealth to surrender that prevented a complete German triumph. Because of that as well as other commonwealth achievements in this war, the position of the commonwealth would emerge after the war with increased political influence.
